

“Tornado sirens are blaring. I see a funnel cloud. The radio says ‘partly cloudy!’”

Your station can have up-to-the-minute weather, temperatures, sky conditions, watches, warnings and forecasts, even when you're voice tracked or running a satellite show with nobody in your building!

UnattendedWeather.com reports include your call letters, dial position and station slogans. They can start with a local time check.

Your weather will be so accurate and sound so good your listeners will swear it's live (even though it's automated). It can air perfectly in 30 seconds for satellite or network shows, and you also get 10 second teasers and other lengths if desired.

You choose from several good radio voices, both male and female. Announcers can rotate in shifts. If you have several stations, each can air a different voice.

We'll text your staff about severe weather warnings

At no extra charge, your news and other people can get text messages or emails of storm watches and warnings. You can choose whether to expand news coverage.

As an option, you can automatically send sponsored text messages to your listeners when severe weather threatens. You can also send AM & PM weather, text coupons, promote shows and remotes and other ways to make money. See RadioTexts.com.

You can afford it...because it will make a profit!

UnattendedWeather.com is more than a listener service and great for your FCC filings, we guarantee you'll make extra money with weather—including severe weather watches and warnings—on your stations day and night. But we'll get to that in a minute.

Your weather will sound live, 24/7!

Our major market voices have each recorded 8,000 sentences covering every possible weather forecast, condition and temperature. UnattendedWeather.Com software in your production studio scans your local National Weather Service info on the Internet constantly. You get temperature and condition updates before every weather you air. Your station stays informative and up-to-the-minute accurate.

UnattendedWeather.com keeps your weather current with no work by station personnel. Your listeners are informed, and it costs far less than you'd think.

Computerized weather stations at sponsor locations around your area add to your local interest and weather credibility. UnattendedWeather.Com brings local temperatures and info into your broadcasts and web sites with no work on your part.

Make extra money by selling 24/7 weather from sponsor locations. Area merchants' associations, malls and other high traffic locations and are prime candidates in your city and nearby towns. Mention these in your weather and add webcam views of those locations to your stations' web sites.

UnattendedWeather.com is by Dave Scott, founder and former owner of Scott Studios. We know radio automation.

Other ideas to increase your income!

You can also include current conditions for several locations in your listening area. Sell naming rights to sponsors of your stations' weather. Simply put a $225 computerized sensor at advertiser stores and charge them for the mentions of weather at their locations.

UnattendedWeather.Com isn't just about making extra money. Our timely weather makes your satellite format or voice tracked shifts sound much more local and informative during unattended times. Also, you'll improve your local issues coverage to the FCC as severe weather info is sure to be significant.

Our money making guarantee is simple:

UnattendedWeather.Com Guarantee

Make three sales calls per week pitching night and weekend weather sponsorships during your unattended shifts. If you don't make thousands of dollars more per year than our weather service costs, we'll give you our weather service Scott free for the next several months until you do!
